2015-16 WYOMING SEASON IN REVIEW

Led by 2016 Mountain West Coach of the Year Joe Jensen, the Wyoming Cowboys had a very successful 2015-16 campaign. The team finished in the top five at eight of their 11 tournaments, concluding the season with a sixth-place finish at the 2015 Mountain West Championships. The Cowboys' sixth-place performance tied for their second-best at a conference championship tournament since the inception of the Mountain West in 1999-2000.

Drew McCullough led the Pokes at the MW tournament, tying for sixth with a stroke total of 211 (-5). Now-senior Ryan Wallen tied for 15th, finishing with a 2-under 214, while now-graduated senior Kamrin Allen tied for 22nd at 217 (+1). Arron Lickteig tied for 30th at 219 (+3), while Quintin Pope tied for 54th at 234 (+18).

Many Cowboys exuded flashes of brilliance throughout the season. Drew McCullough posted the Cowboys' best round of the season, a 65 (-7) at the Wyoming Cowboy Classic. At the Arizona NIT, McCullough tied for fourth place at 207 (-9), his best overall finish of the season. McCullough tied for fifth at the BYU Cougar Classic before ending his season with a team-leading performance at the MW championships.

Kamrin Allen was the runner-up at the Mark Simpson Colorado Invitational, taking second place after shooting 70-69-70 for a total of 215 (-1). He was also a top-five finisher at the Cowboy Southern Dunes, taking fourth with 220 strokes (+4).

Allen, Quintin Pope and Ryan Wallen each posted single rounds of 4-under par during the 2015-16 season. Wallen's 4-under round was the second round of the MW tournament and boosted him to a tie for 15th place overall. Pope recorded a 68 (-4) at the BYU Cougar Classic. Arron Lickteig's best round was a 69 (-3) at the Cowboy Southern Dunes.

Wallen tied for fifth place at two tournaments during the season, the Mark Simpson Colorado Invitational and the Wyoming Cowboy Classic. His stroke total of 208 (-8) at the Wyoming Cowboy Classic was his lowest of the season, beginning a streak of three straight tournaments with even or under-par finishes.

McCullough led Wyoming with a 72.1 stroke average for the season, while Wallen wasn't far behind at 72.4. Allen was next at 73.2, while Lickteig averaged 74.3 strokes per round.

Overall, the highest team finish for Wyoming was a second-place effort at the Cowboy Southern Dunes, a UW-hosted meet. The Cowboys finished just five strokes behind Idaho to take runner-up honors in a seven-team field. Minus Allen, the Cowboys return the exact same roster in 2016-17 and will attempt to move into the conference's top five teams.
